Regency mahogany music Canterbury - ref 1853

A good George III mahogany music Canterbury of rectangular galleried form. The four turned shaped and ringed corner pillars joined by square section concave top stretchers, divided into four sections, by vertical slat shaped pillars, with integrated central carry handle. Below a drawer with turned mahogany knob handles, standing on ring turned and tapering legs terminating in brass cap castors. Canterbury's were originally designed to hold sheet music, today their main use would be a magazine or book rack, this one is of a neat size and retains good colour & patina.
